Stockholm, 21 May 2013

Anders Nordvall is new Head of Catella's property advisory services in Stockholm

Anders Nordvall is assuming the position as Head of Catella's Property advisory services in Stockholm. The current Head of operations, Thomas Persson, is transferring to a senior project manager position in the company.

After three years in charge, Thomas Persson is relinquishing the position at his own request. Anders Nordvall has been involved in property transactions at Catella since 1999, most recently as senior project manager. Anders Nordvall will continue to participate actively in transactions in the future.

"In some ways, Thomas and I are switching places. I'm taking over the management, while Thomas is returning to a more transaction-related role. We have a flat organisational structure and this is a sort of revolving management system, which is well suited to us", says Anders Nordvall, newly appointed Head of Catella's property advisory services in Stockholm.

"After several years in a managerial position, I have been wanting (similarly to many others in similar positions) to return to working more actively with transactions. It will be enjoyable to once again be able to devote time and energy wholeheartedly to transactions", says Thomas Persson.

Catella's Property advisory is a leader on the Swedish market for advisory services in connection with property transactions and property-related services within debt and equity capital markets. In 2012, Catella advised in some 120 transactions in Sweden at a total value of some SEK 29 billion.
